

John Detloff

VP of Flight Attendant Services, Air Culinaire

John Detloff has over 20 years in the culinary/aviation industry and specializes in training corporate flight attendants. John's primary responsibilities include serving as a liaison to the flight attendant community where he will work to develop tailored order processes, as well as new menu assortment and training. Prior to joining Air Culinaire Worldwide, he spent 11 years as the Director of In-Flight Services for Victory Aviation, Huizenga Holdings and the Miami Dolphins. Prior to entering the aviation industry, John held positions as General Manager and Executive Chef for various restaurants and hotels. John's experience with cabin safety, service and culinary makes him an expert in the lives of the flight crews we serve. He has a degree of culinary arts from the School of Culinary Arts and various certificates, including Certified Flight Attendant, EMT and American Red Cross Trainer. As a result of his travels to 68 countries, John knows firsthand what flight crews go through and how to help flight attendants give the best service to their passengers.
